

Historic Properties of Distinctive Construction

Photo Source: Hustvedt, Wikipedia.org

07-0006-11

Historic Properties of Distinctive Construction

Photo Source: Hustvedt, Wikipedia.org

07-0006-11

Historic Properties of Distinctive Construction

Photo Source: Hustvedt, Wikipedia.org

07-0006-11

Historic Properties of Distinctive Construction

Photo Source: Hustvedt, Wikipedia.org

07-0006-11

Historic Properties of Distinctive Construction

A district, site, building, structure, or object may be eligible for listing in the National Register of Historic Places (NHRP) if it meets one or more of the criteria established by the National Park Service. To meet eligibility Criterion C, the property must embody the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction.

Historic Properties of Distinctive Construction

A district, site, building, structure, or object may be eligible for listing in the National Register of Historic Places (NHRP) if it meets one or more of the criteria established by the National Park Service. To meet eligibility Criterion C, the property must embody the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction.

Historic Properties of Distinctive Construction

A district, site, building, structure, or object may be eligible for listing in the National Register of Historic Places (NHRP) if it meets one or more of the criteria established by the National Park Service. To meet eligibility Criterion C, the property must embody the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction.

Historic Properties of Distinctive Construction

A district, site, building, structure, or object may be eligible for listing in the National Register of Historic Places (NHRP) if it meets one or more of the criteria established by the National Park Service. To meet eligibility Criterion C, the property must embody the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction.

