

Local Noise Ordinances

Photo Source: www.flickr.com

09-0011-11

Local Noise Ordinances

Photo Source: www.flickr.com

09-0011-11

Local Noise Ordinances

Photo Source: www.flickr.com

09-0011-11

Local Noise Ordinances

Photo Source: www.flickr.com

09-0011-11

Local Noise Ordinances

Many communities in Colorado, as well as throughout the U.S. and other nations, have adopted local noise ordinances to protect their citizens from unnecessarily loud noise that is detrimental to quality of life. Often these ordinances are applied in the case of barking dogs, loud music, or unusually loud motorcycles or other motor vehicles. Some local noise ordinances establish tighter noise limits during overnight hours to protect their citizens' ability to sleep.

When the Colorado Department of Transportation (CDOT) undertakes road improvements or maintenance within a community that has a noise ordinance, CDOT and its contractors abide by the applicable local restrictions.

Local Noise Ordinances

Many communities in Colorado, as well as throughout the U.S. and other nations, have adopted local noise ordinances to protect their citizens from unnecessarily loud noise that is detrimental to quality of life. Often these ordinances are applied in the case of barking dogs, loud music, or unusually loud motorcycles or other motor vehicles. Some local noise ordinances establish tighter noise limits during overnight hours to protect their citizens' ability to sleep.

When the Colorado Department of Transportation (CDOT) undertakes road improvements or maintenance within a community that has a noise ordinance, CDOT and its contractors abide by the applicable local restrictions.

Local Noise Ordinances

Many communities in Colorado, as well as throughout the U.S. and other nations, have adopted local noise ordinances to protect their citizens from unnecessarily loud noise that is detrimental to quality of life. Often these ordinances are applied in the case of barking dogs, loud music, or unusually loud motorcycles or other motor vehicles. Some local noise ordinances establish tighter noise limits during overnight hours to protect their citizens' ability to sleep.

When the Colorado Department of Transportation (CDOT) undertakes road improvements or maintenance within a community that has a noise ordinance, CDOT and its contractors abide by the applicable local restrictions.

Local Noise Ordinances

Many communities in Colorado, as well as throughout the U.S. and other nations, have adopted local noise ordinances to protect their citizens from unnecessarily loud noise that is detrimental to quality of life. Often these ordinances are applied in the case of barking dogs, loud music, or unusually loud motorcycles or other motor vehicles. Some local noise ordinances establish tighter noise limits during overnight hours to protect their citizens' ability to sleep.

When the Colorado Department of Transportation (CDOT) undertakes road improvements or maintenance within a community that has a noise ordinance, CDOT and its contractors abide by the applicable local restrictions.

